MESSAGE

I am happy to know that teachers of different departments of Bankura University are going to launch an interdisciplinary journal called Interface. This initiative is of course highly laudable.

I understand that this journal promises to provide a platform for scholars across disciplines. In a world of gradual destabilisation of modular disciplinary formations, this journal will definitely negotiate multiple forms of epistemic articulation.

I have come to know that the journal is going to publish some valuable critical essays from various knowledge domains. I believe this inaugural issue of the journal will make its mark in the field of national and international interdisciplinary studies.
